

freedomRail's Organization Forum Helps Keep New Year's Resolutions Alive Participants Can Win Prizes and Save 25% on freedomRail!

Cincinnati, OH (October 03, 2011) freedomRail storage systems are known for their remarkable versatility, strength and style. Now, we're taking the business of organization a step further by offering consumers organizing advice too! Beginning December 26, freedomRail will host a New Year's Resolution blog through freedomRail.com.

The idea is to offer support and advice for people who want to simplify their lives through organization in 2012, but find it difficult to stay on track. All they have to do is list their 2012 resolutions on freedomRail's blog and other members, combined with our team of professional organizers, will provide tips and support to help them stay focused along the way.

Our team of professional organizers includes Amanda LeBlanc, freedomRail spokesperson and star of Style Network's The Amandas. Others include professional organizers from around the country who've been in the business for many years. Valuable advice also comes from day-to-day experiences, so everyone is encouraged to jump in and share their organizing tips too.

Resolutions are not limited to organized spaces, but can include anything that is associated with getting organized. For example, time management tips, meal planning and money saving tips are welcome.

Not only will people who list their resolutions get advice, but they will automatically be entered to win prizes throughout the contest for best resolutions, most improved, best supporting organizer, best tips and more! Plus, one lucky winner will receive an organized space of their dreams from freedomRail in March. There are many ways to enter, including; video testimonials, images and blog posts.

In addition to getting advice from freedomRail's blog, consumers can save money too! freedomRail will be 25% off in January during the annual Start the New Year Organized Sale.

Consumers can save time too by designing a space from freedomRail's Design Your Own tool. For design inspiration, visit freedomRail.com where you can choose from thousands of designs tailored to fit any need, style and budget.
